RECOUNT OF GOVERNOR'S RACE COMPLETED—ERWIN CONCEDES

The recount of Maine's gubernatorial race was completed Tuesday, Dec. 15, at Augusta. Republican Attorney General James S. Erwin conceded to incumbent Democratic Governor Kenneth M. Curtis who will take his oath Jan. 6, 1971, for a second four-year term.

The recount, which began Nov. 23, took just a little more than 14 working days.

The final recount tabulations gave Curtis 163,078 and Erwin 162,578—a 500 vote margin.

There were 497 ballots challenged or disputed—110 for Erwin, 270 for Curtis and 115 unopened absentee.

Attorneys on both sides agreed that the original tabulations, showing an 800 vote margin, would stand. That will make the total for Curtis 163,138 and Erwin 162,248.

BETHEL'S ANNUAL LIVING NATIVITY SCENE TO TAKE PLACE SUNDAY

Bethel townspeople will present their seventh annual Living Nativity Scene Sunday, Dec. 20, on the Bethel Common. Mr. and Mrs. David Salway, co-chairmen, announce that two half-hour scenes will be presented this year: one at 1:30 p. m. and another at 5:30 p. m.

This live, costumed portrayal of the first Christmas is enacted in pantomime under the glow of special lighting effects. Participants enter the scene through a lighted pathway while a choral group adds serenity to the occasion with background music. The Christmas story will be narrated by Wilbur Myers. The scene is expected to be televised in color this year.

Pageant director, Frank Vogt, announces that a final dress rehearsal will take place Saturday evening with make-up at 6 o'clock, followed by a dress rehearsal at 7.

This annual observance shared and presented through the efforts of local churches, organizations, clubs and townspeople takes on special meaning in this community, named Bethel, which means "House of God." Visitors from surrounding areas are invited to attend and share in this experience. Allen Lutton will set the guiding stars on all roads leading to Bethel to direct the crowds to the manger. Church bells will ring out throughout the town ten minutes before each presentation to continued on Page Eight

COMMENTS FROM THE OFFICE OF THE TOWN MANAGER

Wednesday I attended a Legislative conference in Augusta. This is sponsored each year by the Maine Municipal Association. The purpose of this conference is to find what laws the association will support in the next session of Legislature.

These sessions are very well attended by local administrators from all over the state with revenue sharing, tax relief for the elderly and relief from property tax receiving the most attention.

A preliminary budget was presented to the Selectman last Monday night. The largest increase was $11,000 more requested in the highway accounts. By making decreases in other accounts the total increase in the budget was $3120. We do not know for sure what our surplus figures will be as yet but it should be more than we have had as our balances, at this time, indicate we can offset our overdrafts with unexpended balances. There were no programs deleted in next year's plans nor were any services curtailed. The Budget Committee will be receiving copies of the proposals in preparation for their meetings which will be called in the near future.

Elwyn N. Dickey

A regular meeting of Sunset High School Lodge will be held on Monday, Dec. 21 at 8 p. m. Obligation Night will be observed and refreshments served following the meeting.

GREENWOOD CITY

Mrs. Calista Morgan, Corres.
Our valley has a blanket of fresh clean snow. How gently it came down draping each shrub and tree with a mantle of lacy fluff.

I think now King Winter has its jewels in parade for another season of cold.

The next day the rising sun produced a crimson glow and I chose the old road to go to the woods. Untraveled in winter it had lost itself in some of the hollows.

The snow wasn't deep enough to require snowshoes and the traveling was very still.

Not far from home, under the apple trees, the deer had been to eat their evening or morning meal. I followed their tracks up high on the hill for they had chosen my road.

Skirting the maple grove the road raced on triumphantly, again sure of its course. It crawled through low hemlock boughs, so old I, then marched on toward a one time farm section. Just ahead the wind swept in from the field and the snow swirled; making a drift in the form of a perfect checker. Tracks told me the rabbits had found it first.

A partridge had used any road, too, and now he warned me of his presence. Flying up, he sat and nodded, sure of himself here on his snow capped hill.

Further on in the thickness of the forest, tracks of tiny sprites emerged from a tree cavity. These tiny mice innoculate in white vests and tan coats, black eyes shining were, too, exploring the secrets of the sleeping woods. I could see them almost as if they were now there; an adult whitefoot in a fawn coat watching a gray-tufted youngster come skittering around a trunk. These timid creatures of the wild had come out from the friendly shelter of the trees and gazed wonder-eyed, sniffing at the untainted breeze and at the change a few hours had brought.

The deer tracks were everywhere on this rolling countryside. At one spot I saw its bed among the downy feathers upon a slope above which the evergreens were warmly dressed in emerald white. I could almost feel its innocent orbs of liquid brown somewhere within the green grove watching me.

I passed often on my road through the hills to look out upon the deep winding valley of trees and the steepness of the hills. This is what gladdens the walk of one who pushes into the forestland. A world of diamonds; every tree across the hills can gladden and there's joy when the sunlight gives his laughing call from an elm.

There was a gentle wind all along my road, starting the pines, crawling through the hemlocks, marching among the pines that after descending the hill, having made a complete circle, my little road halted and creaked into bed beside a small brook at the edge of the forest.

Now in the open the ice sharpened wind was not pleasing. But I was leaving the trees behind and was facing my house where all the eves had felt coats showing, while wearing a sequined mantle, frosted windows where I had had to look to face again a f. g. of icicles ferns and moss, snowy brooks, faced bridges, cliffs with temples and towers, and one red geranium against it all.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Hilt were in Lewiston on Wednesday and Sat.

The correlative passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy includes this citation: "Jesus said: 'I know that Thou hearest me always' and he raised Lazarus from the dead, stilled the tempest, healed the sick, walked on the water. ETV VIEWERS TO TRAVEL "BACK IN TIME"

Viewers will have the opportunity to travel back in time, when "Maine News and Comment" presents a special half-hour program on Maine winters past, Wednesday, Dec. 23, at 7 p. m., over Maine's four public television channels.

Contributing editor Mark Miller has collected old photographs of Maine winter scenes as far back as 1881 to convey an intimate sense of Maine as it used to be. Some old songs are used along with a descriptive narration to reflect the spirit of the times.

The photographs trace the normal winter activity of Maine residents from the logging camps of the northern woods to the lobster harbors of coastal Maine. Examples of architecture range from stately homes to the crude log shanties of the lumberman.

The modes of transportation common to this era are shown: scenes of ox teams pulling sledges, crude steam engines on runners hauling long lines of freshly cut logs, delicate sleighs carrying couples to their shopping, and old trolley cars—some horse drawn.

The care of the roads in winter is clearly illustrated by photographs of old rollers which packed the surface for sleighs and pondgous.

CHRISTMAS SAFETY

Here is a reminder that can mean the difference between a joyous Christmas season or a tragic holiday. Fire prevention should be practiced the year around—not just at Christmas time. Each year there are over 700 lives lost during the Christmas holiday in this country. The reason is in not heeding a few simple rules.

1. Use only fire resistant decorations.
2. Use only approved outside electrical decorations for outside decorating.
3. Use only decorations with the Underwriter Laboratory Seal on them.
4. Check all fixtures for worn and frayed cords.
5. Do not run extension cords under rugs or over metal objects.
6. Do not use electrical decorations on metal trees.
7. Use only 15 amp fuses.
8. Turn out the lights when you leave the building.
9. Secure Christmas trees so small children and pets can not tip them over.
10. Place trees away from heat and do not block exits.
11. Keep trees in water or wet sand.
12. Do not leave trees in the house when they start to dry out.
13. Keep all combustible materials away from heat.
14. A tree can be fire resistant but not fire proofed.
15. After a tree is sprayed or dipped at least twice in the following solution it will be fire resistant: a. 14 oz. borax; b. 8 oz. boric acid; c. 1 gallon water.
16. By following these rules and using common sense Bethel should have a Joyous and Happy Christmas free from fire.

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

SUNDAY RIVER

Mrs. R. M. Fleet, Correspondent

We who know Dale Thurston of Bethel are very sorry to hear about his bad accident and hope he will recover so as to be with us again soon.

Dr. Loy Harrell was at the Stephens Memorial Hospital Sunday working.

The snowmobiles are getting out and around the last few days.

Mrs. Mary Morin was in Lewiston Christmas shopping Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kimball and three children were Sunday callers at her mother's, Mrs. Mary Morin's.

We are soon going to see Sunday River Inn all lit up for business which will seem very good.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Nowlin and family are now living in a trailer at Pat Carter's trailer quarters.

Little Tanya LaValley stayed with Barbara Yates Monday while her mother was away.

Darnita Yates and Julia Fleet baby-sat for Mrs. Laurel Harrell Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Julia Fleet spent the day Tuesday with Mrs. Dot Onofrio talking about Christmas and sewing.

Mrs. Barbara Yates was in Berlin, Friday shopping.

Well, I have two short notes this week. First, a helicopter was around over the Ski Area and flew over the river making an unusual noise so different from most planes that a couple of woodpeckers that were on feeders took for cover when one saw it and gave the alarm. They slid around on the back side of the post and stayed quiet for half an hour before they returned to their perch. Then they kept a sharp look out to see where it had gone. So wild things notice a change in things.

Then Sunday morning we looked out the window and saw David Fleet's dog Tippy in the road. He was looking back behind him. Soon the question was answered as Clod, Dr. Harrell's dog was trying to find a way to get up by David's driveway as their other dog Tiny, tied in the yard, was barking like a good one. Well Tippy seemed to sense the trouble so he came back and stood just as if to talk it over with Clod. Then they started up the road, Tippy just a bit ahead with Clod very close behind. When they got beyond the driveway Tippy turned and came back home while Clod shuffled along up out of sight. Guess that's a plain case where the bark is worse than the bite.

MEASURE MEDICINES CAREFULLY

When your physician instructs you to take a teaspoonful of a liquid medicine he means for you to do just that. He has calculated how much active ingredient will be in that teaspoonful of the prescription and taking more or less will possibly be extending the length of the illness he is trying to treat.

Follow all the directions on your prescription package for they are there for important reasons. The label will tell you how and when to take the medicine and how much to take. Sometimes it will tell you how to store it, what to do if you need more, as well as anything else your physician thinks you should know. Never keep a medicine bottle that does not have an instruction label.

YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a delivery. We will deliver without extra charge. A great many people rely on us for their health needs. We welcome requests for delivery service and charge accounts.

LIVING NATIVITY SCENE

alert them to gather at the manger. The chorus has become an important part of the scene. Mrs. Arnel Brown, chorus director, and Ben Warner, chorus coordinator, invite anyone interested—and especially newcomers to Bethel—to come to the Congregational Church on Friday, Dec. 18, at 7 p. m. for rehearsal.

The following participants will portray the Holy Family, Wisemen, Shepherds, Shepherdesses, and Angels during the scene: Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hastings and Ellen, Stanley Fox, Drew Webster, Roger Conant, Mary MacKay, Laurie Olson, Kathryn Salway, Seymour Butters, Charles Farrar, Michael O'Donnell, Maurice Roy, Elwyn Dickey, Allen Messer, Barry Salway, Stewart Sweetser, Bradley Fiske, Daniel Wheeler, Thomas Kennagh, Nancy Young, Tony Butters, Nancy Brown, Pauline Roy, Susan Vogt, Amy Vogt, Carolyn and Marianne Cousins, and Linda Buck. Richard Stevens will serve as gate-keeper.

Costume chairman, Mrs. Emily Saunders, announces that a ceremonial Indian "Bullock Blanket," loaned by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Grover, formerly of Bethel and now with the Peace Corps, will be used over an animal in the scene. The Grovers, reflecting on the annual Christmas Scene of their hometown, made a special request that the blanket be loaned to the pageant committee. According to the Grovers, this colorful blanket of silk and velvet is used in India to cover the Bullock Bull when pulling a cart for a wedding party or other ceremonial possession.

Other committees for the pageant include: Mr. and Mrs. Roderick McMillin, snow removal and traffic control; James Owen and Clayton Crockett, special lighting; Romeo Baker and the Bethel Boy Scouts, assisted by Phillippe Rolfe, manger construction; Donald Chretien, cradle construction; Dr. and Mrs. James Hudson, animals; George Nickerson and John Grover, manger boughs; Mrs. Lucia Smith, Nativity decorations; Mrs. Virginia Keniston, make-up; Mrs. Arlene Brown, props; Mrs. Susan Angevine, telephones; Harold Carver, clean-up; and Rosabelle Tift, publicity. The Ladies Auxiliary of the Bethel fire department will serve hot cocoa to the cast and committee following the pageant.
